

Employee Disciplinary Procedure

Butser Education CIC wishes to ensure that any complaints about unsatisfactory work or conduct are resolved as quickly and with as much fairness as possible and to this end have established a Disciplinary Procedure.

This procedure applies to all employees. It is designed to help and encourage all employees to achieve and maintain high standards of conduct, attendance and job performance. Should the standards of conduct, attendance and/or job performance of an employee fall below the expectations of Butser Education CIC, this procedure will be used in an attempt to effect improvement.

Responsibilities

It is the responsibility of the Directors of Butser Education CIC to explain clearly all requirements regarding standards of conduct, attendance and job performance and adherence to policy and to ensure that these are updated and issued to all employees.

Principles

At any stage in this procedure the employee will be informed by their supervisor of the nature of the complaint against her/him and will be given the opportunity to make her/his case before any decision is made. The notice of any meeting under this procedure must tell the employee the nature of the complaint being made.

No disciplinary action will be taken against an employee until the case has been fully investigated. It may prove necessary to place an employee on suspension until such investigations are carried out. Suspension will be notified to the employee in writing and will not normally exceed a period of 10 working days without review. In exceptional circumstances the period of suspension may be extended to allow full investigation to take place. Any such extension will also be notified to the employee in writing. During such a suspension the employee will be paid at a rate equivalent to her/his contractual earnings.

No employee will be dismissed for a first breach of discipline except in the case of gross misconduct when the penalty will normally be summary dismissal, i.e. dismissal without notice or wages in lieu of notice.

At all stages of the procedure, the employee will have the right to be accompanied/represented by her/his trade union representative or fellow employee of her/his choice. Any mitigating circumstances will be taken into account in reaching a decision.

Any employee will have the right of appeal against any disciplinary penalty imposed.

In appropriate cases (e.g. poor performance), an employee will be advised in writing of the time allowed for improvement and when and how reviews will take place. The employee will have the right of appeal against the time allowed for improvement.

The procedure may be initiated at any of the stages 1-4, depending on the seriousness of the employee's alleged misconduct.

No disciplinary decision will be taken against a trade union representative until discussions have taken place with a full-time official of the union.

Only when all reasonable efforts have been made to assist an employee will disciplinary action be taken. The procedure will be operated within the agreed time-scales.

Responsibility to maintain confidentiality lies with all parties involved.

Informal Procedure

It is Butser Education CIC's aim to encourage acceptable standards of conduct and performance. Every effort will be made to deal with minor problems through informal discussion and supervision in order to avoid the need to implement the formal procedure.

The supervisor will arrange for provision of in house support, practical assistance and/or training as appropriate to ensure that acceptable standards of work performance and behaviour are met.

When the informal procedure outlined fails, or the matter is more serious, the following formal procedure will be used.

Formal Procedure

Stage 1: Verbal Warning

If performance or conduct is not considered satisfactory, and where (if appropriate) the informal procedure has established this to be within the employee's control, the employee will be interviewed by the line manager and given the opportunity to explain her/his actions.

A formal verbal warning will be given and recorded in the employee's personal file. The record must identify shortcomings, the standard of conduct and/or performance required and give a specific time in which improvement must be made. It must be conveyed verbally and confirmed in writing.

The employee will be informed in writing of the right of appeal.

Stage 2 : First Written Warning

If there is no improvement in the standard of conduct/performance following a review within the period specified for Stage 1, or where the seriousness of the alleged offence warrants immediate recourse to this stage of the procedure, the employee will be interviewed by the designated person and given the opportunity to explain her/his actions.

If the explanation is not satisfactory, a First Written Warning will be issued. The First Written Warning should fulfil the following conditions:

- it should state clearly the nature of the offence
- if appropriate, it should state that repetition of the offence or commission of further offences may lead to further disciplinary action
- it should specify any agreed action required of both parties, including timescales for improvement and methods of reviewing progress, and
- the employee will be informed in writing of the right of appeal.

The warning will remain confidential to the employee, any representative of the employee, and the directors. It will be filed in the employee's personal file.

Stage 3: Final Written Warning

If there is no improvement in the standard of conduct/performance following a review at the end of the period specified for Stage 2, or where the seriousness of the alleged offence warrants immediate recourse to this stage of the procedure, the employee will be interviewed by the designated people and given the opportunity to explain her/his actions.

If the explanation is not satisfactory, a final written warning will be issued. The final written warning should fulfil the following conditions:

- it should state clearly the nature of the offence
- if appropriate, it should state that repetition of the offence or commission of further offences may lead to further disciplinary action
- it should outline any agreed action required of both parties, including timescales for improvement and methods of reviewing progress, and
- it should make clear that, if there is no or insufficient improvement in performance or conduct after the period specified, it may result in dismissal.

- the employee will be informed in writing of the right of appeal.

The warning will remain confidential to the employee, any representative of the employee, the Director and the Chair of the Employment Sub Group. It will be filed in the employee's personal file.

Stage 4 : Dismissal

If there is still no sustained improvement in the standard of conduct/performance whilst a final written warning remains live. or if any new offence occurs whilst a final written warning remains live, or if there is any allegation of gross misconduct, the employee will be interviewed by the designated people.

If an acceptable explanation is not forthcoming, dismissal will normally result, with or without notice as appropriate.

The employee will be provided, as soon as is reasonably practicable, but within five working days, with written reasons for dismissal, the date on which employment will terminate and the right of appeal.

In cases of gross misconduct dismissal may be without notice or payment in lieu of notice.
